PROGRAM: Gene Hallman - President/CEO of Bruno Event Team. Gene Started off with a funny Steve Spurrier Story about the time he played in the Bruno's Memorial at Greystone Golf Course. Gene's main topic was just how much a sporting event can impact a city's economic growth. "The amount of economic impact one single sporting event has on a city would blow your mind." - Gene Hallman. Spoke briefly on the Barber Motor Sports Park and it's economic impact on Birmingham and how other major sports leagues and companies are targeting this city for expansion. The World Games is another great opportunity for this city's economic development. Gene was a bit late to the meeting and arrived just before he took the podium. For good reason however, as he had just gotten off a Skype call with the CEO of Fox Sports. Spoke heavily on the Stallions return to Birmingham and how the USFL is in talks to come to this city for its inaugural season to use the new Protective Stadium as its main event venue. Fox Sports will own the league outright, as well as the sports book.
