Mark Curls - SEC Football Referee / Official. Mark started by stating how it was an honor to speak to the CSC. Mark reminded everyone that the first SEC game is actually this weekend (Week - Vandy vs. Hawaii). He talked about the rule changes going into effect this year. #1. Blocking below the waist. This action is still legal but under very limited circumstances. They are putting a greater emphasis on safety with this rule. #2 Targeting. No Effort to change the definition of targeting in the name of safety. But they are allowing a review process post game to determine the consequences of the penalty. The school and conference can also appeal the decision if they feel the need to do so. Mark then opened up the program to a more interactive Q&A from the CSC audience. Everyone was very engaged, and lots of questions were asked. Mark gave a very knowledgeable and in depth program. He ended the program with a very funny penalty story involving former South Carolina coach, Will Muschamp.
